

As we know, a single building alone cannot solve the current problems in Hong Kong. So instead, we turned our focus to making a better place to live; somewhere where daily life is more pleasurable. We addressed the issue by researching how to introduce more daylight and beautiful vistas into these people's lives.

We chose bamboo, wood and steel as a starting point, due to the fact that bamboo is abundant in Hong Kong. Also, bamboo and wood is a green and environmentally-friendly material that will bring more colour (greenery) into people's daily lives, giving rise to a sense of hope and vitality.
